PRESIDENT CANNOT.

His Enemies Declare They Rest Until He Resigns

Constans Said to be the Master.

PARIS, Jan. 13. To-day the rumors are afloat in regard to President Carnot. Several of the deputies have been most earnest in pushing the investigation, make no secret of the fact that they will not rest until forced to resign. The strength of the case against the President depends on the credibility of Balthaz, Ex-Minister of Public Works, and Carnot's friends that no faith whatever should be placed in Balthaz's disclosures, that he is a traitor against Carnot for not protecting him from prosecution, as he wishes to drag the President with him.

On the other hand it is pointed out that the enemies of M. Carnot that Balthaz agrees with the fact known, and that Charles De Waulpercourt would probably corroborate Balthaz's statements to reveal all that he knows. In the meantime President Carnot serves severe temper and seems determined to the assaults upon him. He is credited by nearly every one with at the bottom of the attack upon it is known to have better feeling the President on account of his from the Cabinet. All eyes are toward Constans as the coming if not already the master of the situation from a Republican standpoint.

CROWDS OF PEOPLE

Await the Arrival of Gen. Butler's Remains at Lowell.

Preparations for the Funeral and for the Lying in State.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 13. The body of General Butler reached here at 12:30, five hours late. A crowd of people of all ages waited from 7:40 this morning, the time it was to reach here, in a cold barn-like station where there is little cover from the cold. The people suffered greatly, but held on. Nearly the whole city was waiting to receive the General's body. At the home of the General, where the body was taken direct, a heavy knot of people hung from the door knob. From the windows of the room where the body was placed, can be seen the Merrimack tumbling over Hunk Falls, three hundred yards down the slope from the residence, one of the few spots where the river is open. The coffin was taken from a special car and on it was the wreath President Harrison placed there yesterday in Washington. The guard from B. F. Butler Post 42, that went from Lowell to receive the remains, lifted the coffin to the hearse which was standing on Middlesex street and the crowd.

Uncovered in the Cold Air. Paul Butler, supporting his sister, Mrs. Blanche Butler Ames, was one of the first to step from the train. The flag the General rode behind in the Washington G. A. R. parade last fall, was carried, draped in mourning. Old men waited in the crowd and children too. The people who came on the special looked haggard and unnatural from grief and loss of sleep. Down Main street the cortege passed between the crowds that lined both sides. Delegations from G. A. R. posts were in the crowd, but the passage to the General's home, a mile away from the station, was made unostentatious as possible. Carriages took the family and friends from the special train to the house. It had been snowing all morning, but stopped just before the special rolled in, bearing traces of a hard and long journey. Preparations for a military funeral are going on rapidly in Huntington Hall, where the body will be in state Sunday, being draped in purple and black. Monday will see business almost suspended and mills shut down.

Resolution Introduced by Mr. Jones.

HOW MANY ARE THERE?

Would Make a Startling Array of Figures.

An Interesting Count Which Would Reveal a Great Deal.

Some Inside History in Feminine Lives.

Women are great sufferers from nervousness, weakness, nervous prostration and debility. Thousands of girls droop and languish in the close, confined atmosphere of shops, factories or offices, and hundreds of thousands wear out their nerve force and power in household cares, family bereavements and responsibilities and work which never ends.

Here lies the great strain upon the nervous systems of women. Here is the cause why so many women complain of being weak, nervous, tired and exhausted. They have little or no rest, their life is one continual round of work, duties here, duties there, duties without number. What wonder that such women go to bed at night fatigued, and wake tired and unrefreshed in the morning? What wonder that they become worn out, so to speak, in nerve and vital power? What wonder that they have great weakness, exhaustion, pains in back and limbs, together with the distressing female complaints which are always caused by loss of vital strength and vigor? Of how many thousands of women is the above a true and exact transcript of daily life? They have worn out and exhausted their nerve force and physical power. They must work, but it follows as surely as the day follows the night that they must receive from some source a renewal of nerve force and physical energies, or the human machine will soon cease to run at all.

No one knows these facts better than women themselves, and the inside history of feminine lives would reveal a story of tired bodies, unstrung and excitable nerves, wearied limbs, aching heads and backs, with that exhausted, dragged out feeling which makes their lives miserable. The well known F. L. Haven, of New Boston, Conn., writing upon this subject says:

"Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is a wonderful remedy, for nervous prostration, and those terrible dread, weak feelings that make life a burden, almost too great to bear. I feel that I cannot say enough in its praise for what it has done for me. It gives one the most restful sleep, and in fact does all and more than all it claims to do. I wish every poor, tired woman on the face of the earth could be induced to try it for three days. They would then understand its value, and life would not seem so wearisome and undesirable."

It is a fact that the great nerve insulator and female restorative is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. No remedy in the world is so sure to bring back the bloom and color to the wan and faded cheeks, the brilliancy to the hollow and haggard eyes, the lightness and elasticity to the weak and weary step, the strength and vitality to the unstrung, shattered and worn-out nerves. It is the greatest of all uterine tonics and regulators, and perfectly and completely cures all female weakness and disease.

If our readers are troubled in this way we should advise them by all means to use this remarkable remedy. We know it to be purely vegetable and harmless and it is within everybody's reach as all druggists sell it for $1. It is the discovery and prescription of Dr. Greene, of 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass., the eminent specialist in the treatment of nervous and chronic diseases, and the doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter, which is a guarantee of the great value of the remedy.
